InKo Centre, in association with Tara Books, presents a series of live readings on YouTube that introduces children to cross-cultural books. The latest was To Market! To Market!, a much-loved picture book that was published in Korean in 2009. It reminds readers of the enduring charm of a typical city market in southern India, and is read by author Anushka Ravishankar. The recordings are hosted on the Tara Books YouTube channel. Look out for two more sessions, one each in October and November.
