Born to fly

Bird, a series of solo movement propositions by four male dancers bridges together two anatomies: that of human rootedness and of avian flight. Deepak Kurki Shivaswamy, Vikram Iyengar, Surjit Nongmeikapam, and Joshua Sailo perform this contemporary choreography by Preethi Athreya.

Where: Alliance Francaise of Madras

When: February 13 and 14, 7 pm.

Flight of imagination

InKo Centre presents 'BIRD,' conceptualised and choreographed by Chennai-based dancer, Preethi Athreya, today at 6 p.m. Co-produced by The Goethe Institute, Max Mueller Bhavan, Chennai, and The Alliance Francaise of Madras, the production will have Preethi accompanied by four male dancers. Korean lighting designer, Jeong Hee Kang's lighting plot complements Preethi and her dancers contemporary movement vocabulary to create a presentation that is provocatively abstract, evocative and disruptive.
